

Australian Women's Health Network (AWHN)

We invite you to join

With the range of policy activity in health at the national level it is important that women's health voices are heard. WOMEN'S Healthworks is an active member of the Australian Women's Health Network to collaborate with others in ensuring we have an organised, recognised presence. The Australian Women's Health Network is managed by a voluntary national executive, with representatives from each state and territory who donate their time and expertise. AWHN is reliant on membership as the main source of income – so please encourage your workplace and other individuals to join.

Please see AWHN's website www.awhn.org.au for the AWHN membership form.

6th Australian Women's Health Conference

This important conference is being held in Hobart, 18-21 May 2010. The call for abstracts has closed with a preliminary program expected in mid August. You can register now through the conference web site www.awhn.org.au