

HAVE YOUR SAY ON THE FUTURE OF MENTAL HEALTH SERVICES IN WA

PRICEWATERHOUSECOOPERS  is preparing a strategic plan for improving the future delivery of mental health services across the continuum of care, from prevention and promotion through to acute and recovery services. This project will provide an agreed overarching policy framework to guide mental health service reform in Western Australia.

As outlined in the Government's election commitment, this project will undertake a comprehensive review of services; develop the State Mental Health Policy; and develop the State Mental Health Strategic Plan 2010-2020.

How can we improve mental health services?

Individuals and organisations are invited to provide input into the development of the State Mental Health Strategic Plan 2010-2020 by completing an online submission at www.pwc.com/au/mentalhealthsurvey

The purpose is to find out the priority areas to improve future services for people with mental health problems and promote the mental health of all West Australians.

Are you a mental health consumer or carer?

We would like to find out how well the service meets the needs of mental health consumers, and their families and carers through an online survey and a number of consumer and carer workshops.

- Please visit www.pwc.com/au/mentalhealthsurvey to complete the survey.
- To register your interest in the consumer and carer workshops, email your name and contact details to mentalhealthsurvey@au.pwc.com

The online submissions and consumer and carer feedback will be open until 10 July 2009.

More details about the project are at www.pwc.com/au/mentalhealthsurvey

For any inquiries, please contact mentalhealthsurvey@au.pwc.com

We look forward to your participation in this important project.
